TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS

Under a ruling of the Post Office Department, at Washington, which went into effect on January 1st, 1908, publishers of weekly newspapers are not permitted to extend credit to a subscriber for a longer period than one year. Names of subscribers who have not paid their subscription for a period of one year or more must be taken off the list of the publisher is liable to a penalty.

We are therefore sending out bills to all subscribers who owe a year or more, and have instructed our collector, Edwin Kirk, to call this bill to the attention of those from whom he collects.

Prompt settlement is urged, or accounts must be placed in the hands of attorneys.

We have no choice in this matter as much as we would be willing to favor certain cases.

THE SPIRIT must comply with this ruling of the United States Government.

MANY FOLKS THOUGHT THAT Congress would be so pleased with having passed that troublesome reciprocity bill, that it would shut its doors and go home. Not so, however, as they have been passing tariff reduction bills and threatening to pass others, until the business of the country is much upset with the uncertainty of the outcome.

Lower duties upon wool and woolens and a so-called farmers' free list seem in a fair way to be passed finally by the Nation's law makers.

Both political parties, urged on by the consumers' cry of high prices, have promised substantial tariff reductions.

The Republicans wish to await the report of a tariff commission, which has been for months investigating and is expected to show just how the country can be done scientifically. The Democrats, however, finding themselves able by combination with a few western progressive Republican Senators, to command a majority vote, are getting right ahead lowering duties right and left. They are thus able to make political capital, but whether these bills will become laws is, as stated above, uncertain.

A great risk of relief would go from the business interests of the land if Congress would adjourn.

WHAT PUZZLES MOST OF US IS that the more the railroads and public service corporations are regulated by Congress and State Legislatures, the higher go the fares and other charges.
Every time a public service corporation wants to soak the dear people, it starts its announcement by saying that in order to comply with legal requirements, prices will be raised here and there and generally all around.
The public would like to see an adjustment downward.

POLITICS TO DATE

CANDIDACY OF SAMUEL H. HIGH.

We are on the threshold of a political campaign of great importance to all our citizens because of the many county and local offices to be filled and of special interest to those of the lower end of the county because of the number of their neighbors who are mentioned as possible candidates of the various parties for some of the most influential of the county offices.

Not the least interesting of these possible candidacies is that of Samuel H. High, Esquire, of Jenkintown, for the Democratic nomination for Judge of the Orphans' Court, which is already receiving widespread and complimentary notice from the press and the voters of the county without regard to their party affiliations.

Mr. High, when seen with reference to the subject by the "Spirit" reporter, stated that he had not yet declared himself as a candidate but that he was giving the subject most serious consideration, because of the unusually general encouragement that he was receiving, and would likely decide, within the next few days, whether he would or would not enter the contest.

It is being urged upon him by many of his best citizens that it is his duty to make the run not only from the standpoint of local pride but because it is a county with a population of nearly 170,000, with the voters nearly equally divided in party affiliations, and for other reasons which should commend themselves to every one, at least one of the three Judges should be a county Republican. No other party has been represented on the County Bench for at least twenty-five years. Again, it is argued that Mr.
High, while a Democrat, has never been offensively partisan, lives in that section of the county which certainly contributes the most business to this court and in character, knowledge of the law, broad experience, gained in many years of its very active practice, professional standing, physical condition, temperance and vigor, exceptionally well qualified for the performance of the duties of the office.
It is also claimed that if Mr. High does become the Democratic candidate it will make fusion between that party and the Republicans a certai-nality, which, in light of the vote cast last fall, would assure his election.

Without regard to party lines, would like to see him become a candidate upon the election day, to roll up for him a vote that will be a revelation.

L. A. Nagle has announced himself as a candidate for County Commissioner under the Republican rules. Mr.
Nagle has many friends and is qualified to fill the office should he be nominated and elected.

Some of our automobile owners will be glad to hear that they need not high rate of speed that they now incline to, going through our streets at 30 miles and over an hour. They not only stand in the way of being fined, but at the same time are risking their own lives and the lives of others.

Fritz Quittner and a number of friends, while returning from a day's trip to the coast, had their Buick automobile, had the misfortune to collide with another machine. The occupants of the other machine were thrown out and the machine badly damaged. None of Mr. Quittner's age was done to the machine.

misfortune to be run into by an automobile on Monday evening. His machine was somewhat damaged, although he was not injured.

Accident happened at Church and Millids roads and was occasioned it is said, by the automobile falling to take proper care at the crossing.

A. Selbert has sold his property at the corner of Roberts avenue and railroad to William P. Albright. Mr. Albright is having the property remodelled and will open the same up as a real estate and building office.
He will also be conducting a little optical building. Harry Yerkes, formerly connected with W. T. B. Roberts & Son, will also be connected with the property. Mr. Selbert will retain the right to retain the end of the building for his tailoring establishment.

Since the Reading has increased the fare at Glenside there has been nothing but kicks and complaints from the side at the excursion fare for an excursion ticket. The old rate of 40 cents was thought to be too high, and now that it has been raised to 45 cents, makes it too expensive for the shopping tours. It will have the effect of driving a good many people to the trolley cars. It was possible one time for two to use the 50-cent ticket but now each person would have to have a ticket and in most families it is too much of an outlay to have more than the one ticket. The word will also have an effect on those people who are contemplating coming to Glenside to live, as we no longer have the benefit of a decent carfare.

Glenside and Quakertown played ball at Glenside last Saturday and lost to Quakertown by the score of 3 to 1. Quakertown won by the score of 10 to 0, as Glenside played a game of ball behind great pitching and batting. One run was scored in the first by Quakertown on a three base hit by Taylor and an out. After Elizabeth L. wife of Benjamin Graham until the 8th, when another three-base hit, a single and an error scored their one run. Glenside scored their one run on a hard hit by Worthington to the left field, which was good for four bases on excellent base running. Glenside had opportunity to score at times but failed to hit with men on the bases. Graham hit for three bases with none out, but was stranded on third base. Graham also did the trick of hitting a home run, Moore, who played a fine game in that position. Those who do not attend the games are missing fine home games, although Glenside does not win.

The Unavoidable Accident.
With each decade Time sends a bill to me.
Demanding pay in full for all I've had and now my head and neck, and I pay in wrinkles and infirmity.

Time does not write: "One lisp for a sleepless night."
One crow foot wrinkle for an overday;
One shortened wince for liquidated debt;
One slouch for walking less than was your need."

He sends but totals, and I am surprised to see how much it costs, but yet I may not use my head and neck, "I shall not pay."
The score until the bill is "settled."

OBITUARY

REV. DR. DAVID H. LOVEJOY.

Rev. Dr. David H. Lovejoy died at his home at Roslyn, last Tuesday evening, July 25th, after an illness of several months. The funeral took place at his late home on Friday, the 28th, and was largely attended by friends from both city and country.

Dr. Lovejoy was born in 1839 at Riga, near Rochester, N. Y., and spent the early part of his life in Western New York and Michigan.

After graduating at the head of a class of 70 in medicine at the University of Michigan, 1862, he returned to Rochester and studied for the Episcopal ministry. He came to Philadelphia in 1875 and was largely instrumental in building up the immense church work, known at present as St.
Luke's church, Kensington.

Falling health compelled him to relinquish city work in 1893, when he moved to Roslyn, N. J., and was rector of St. Peter's church, Weldon, until 1896. He moved to his residence at Roslyn in 1900, where he purchased and improved it.

His health had been failing for several years, and he had been under the doctor's care. The direct cause of his death was heart failure. Dr. Lovejoy was greatly interested in Masonic work and was chaplain of Washington Lodge, No.
100, of the city of Philadelphia.

He is survived by a widow who was Miss Augusta Bristol, of Buffalo, N. Y., and by two children, Miss Gertrude Z. and Mrs. Frederic H.
Lovejoy, of Roslyn, N. J., and a daughter, Miss Elizabeth Hardy, of Pomfret, Conn.

Ogontz and Ashbourne whereby no doubt Township can purchase the plant at a greatly enhanced valuation.

And as the Taxpayer states Jenkintown and Abington would require an outlet, what more reasonable to expect than that they should bear a goodly part of the cost of construction and maintenance of main sewer disposal plant which would result to a considerable extent reduce this cost to Township if it constructed same.

Farmers and others who do not use sewers according to Taxpayer would not have to pay, but what of the future, say 10 or 20 years, when the trend of improvement turns their farms into residential section and they must have sewers, what then Mr. Taxpayer?

It is my opinion as a Taxpayer, that sewers have got to come and the sooner the better if we are going to maintain a place among the first-class Townships and show the outside public of the State that we have the proper public improvements to meet their wants.

It costs as much in some sections at present to dig and keep wells clean, which are only temporary expedients, as it would to build a sewer in front of their property and have a thorough sanitary condition for all time.

It is my opinion Mr. Taxpayer, that the Township should build and own their own sewers as well as private systems in Township. Most people object to pay taxes as well as myself but I consider sewers a crying public necessity which every citizen should be interested in, who is public spirited and has the future good of the Township at heart.

Yours very truly,
A TAXPAYER.

HATBORO HOME HAPPENINGS

CAT GAVE MASTER A DOLLAR.

Here is a cat story that is vouched for by several of Hatboro's most reputable citizens: Thomas Reading, the florist, has a half grown cat that he keeps at his seed store to catch mice. When the cat catches a mouse, it brings the victim and lays the unlucky rodent at Mr. Reading's feet, and then purrs for his approval. One day this week the cat came to Mr. Reading with what appeared to be a mouse in its mouth. Mr. Reading stooped over to pat the cat, when he was astonished to see, not a mouse, but a dollar bill. The money was greasy, as though it had been handled by a butcher and this probably attracted the cat, at any rate the cat brought the dollar to her master and he gave pussy an extra carra or two. He hopes the cat's luck will continue.

RHEUMATISM and its TORTURES banished

Mr. C. Hoffman, 2907 E. York street, Philadelphia, Pa. writes: "I wish to let you know what MATUROW'S NULLEY (tablets) has done for me. I have had Rheumatism for the last ten years. I have had pains in the arms, shoulders and ankles, and severe pains in the small of the back, across the kidneys. At times I had such severe pains in the hip that I could not move. It was also troubled with constipation from childhood. I used one bottle of MATUROW'S NULLEY (tablets) and feel like a new man. I have no more pain and my bowels move regularly; and my work, that of a motorman, is again a pleasure to me instead of a burden. I intend to continue the use of NULLEY (tablets) for a while. I give you this testimonial with pleasure and gratitude, and hope that others who suffer from Rheumatism will be able to give this wonderful medicine a trial. MATUROW'S NULLEY (tablets) is sold and recommended by Walter Rothwell, the well known druggist of Hatboro, Pa. and by all up-to-date druggists; also for sale (or by mail) at the Nulley Laboratory, 28 Columbia avenue, Philadelphia. OF INTEREST TO FARMERS.

TIMELY TOPICS OF PLANTS AND PESTS DISCUSSED WEEKLY
By H. A. Surface, State Zoologist of Pa.
TO AVOID LOSS BY THE HESSIAN FLY.

A Very Important and Timely Article Giving the Results of Years on investigation by State Zoologist H. A. Surface.

A Northumberland County Farmer, who has suffered with thousands of others in the eastern half of Pennsylvania from the unusually severe destruction of the wheat crop by the Hessian fly, wrote to the State Zoologist, at Harrisburg, saying:

"Our wheat was almost entirely destroyed by Hessian fly this season. Can the same ground and that which is near be safely sown to wheat this season?"

The reply of Professor Surface is as follows:
"The loss from the Hessian fly this year, was, indeed, very considerable throughout the entire eastern part of Pennsylvania. Some fields which would have yielded from thirty to forty bushels per acre are, at this time by actual threshing measure, averaging only three bushels per acre. The loss by this pest alone in this State will amount to many hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Some years ago I commenced a series of investigations on the Hessian fly, and have continued them with the greatest care. I learned that some years the fly is more abundant, and in others much less abundant, but never entirely absent. I also proved that at the latitude and altitude of Harrisburg in those fields where wheat was sown before the 25th of September there is danger of the fall brood of the fly being present and very destructive. There are two distinct broods or generations per year in this State. The fall brood passes the winter in what is known as the fastened stage, and from this in the spring comes forth the winged fly, which lays its eggs near the basal parts of the wheat, and from these hatch the spring brood, which causes the wheat to break down or become strawfallen. Owing to the badly broken condition of the straw this year, many farmers entirely abandoned their binders, and cut their wheat with mowers, because they could cut it lower with these implements. It was then raked together and handled like hay.

Nearly all the flies remain in the field in the stubble. Very few are taken into the barn with the straw for the reason that they do not live high enough in the straw to be cut off with the sickle. It is a good plan either to burn the stubble or to plow the field before the latter part of August. Even earlier plowing would be more sure of turning them all down. If the soil is turned over completely by the plow, so that the stubble is thrown under, the fly will be destroyed. Of course, the objection to plowing or burning is that the clover or grass sown in the grain is thus destroyed. Also, it scarcely justifies one man or even a few men in a neighborhood to do this unless all co-operate and act in perfect unison. One single field in a township will contain enough specimens of the fly in its stubble to infest an entire township. If it were possible to spread them in every direction. Therefore, the plowing and burning is not absolutely necessary, but will prove an aid. One can have good results by other means, and at the same time preserve the grass.

These other methods consist in preparing the ground and planting a trap strip of one or more drill widths across the field, in the latter part of August. This is to act as a trap to let the fly lay its eggs during the early part and middle of September. Then about the 20th of September, it can be turned down, and the ground harrowed and reseeded.

Thus the entire field can be planted at the proper time, and this strip saved as a trap to catch and destroy the eggs. This is advisable on single farm, even though others do not act in accordance. In following this method it does not become very important as to whether this was a field that was in wheat this year or not. You will be ahead of the fall brood of the Hessian fly. The only trouble is, that if your neighbor should plant too early, his wheat will receive the eggs from the flies that are now in the stubble, and then if he sows in near yours, next spring the flies will come to yours from his, and it is this spring brood that is especially destructive by making the straw break and fall, as mentioned above. Therefore, co-operation in late seeding, or uniformly in this, throughout the entire section, is the keynote to the best possible method of avoiding destruction by the Hessian fly. There is no known remedy after it once enters the plant.

It is wrongly believed that the fly attacks the grains themselves. It does not work in the head of the grain. The insects doing this are quite different pests, which demand entirely different treatment. In the eastern part of this State a small moth has been exceedingly destructive within the grains of wheat. For this the best possible remedy is to thresh from a field as early as possible. This has proven effective and satisfactory.

THE CAPSULE TREATMENT.

A horticultural teacher in Montgomery County, wrote to State Zoologist Surface, at Harrisburg, Pa., asking if he had any remedy in the treatment of San Jose scale by the application of certain chemicals under the bark of the tree, and also the effect of applying a capsule containing cyanide of potassium, compared by firm in Allentown, Pa.

The reply of Professor Surface is complete, and may be useful to other orchardists. It is as follows:
"I take pleasure in replying to yours of the 14th, concerning the treatment of San Jose scale by the application of certain chemicals.

"I must say that I have tried the preparation known as 'Eckman's Fertilizing and Scale Treatment', by the Fertilizing Scale Co., of Allentown, Pa., and have found that it is liable to injure the tree, and does not in any sense effect the scale. In the first place, no material will be taken up in solution by a living tree when placed beneath the bark. Secondly, if such a thing were possible, it would poison the fruits for people to use, as well as for the insects. Thirdly, the poison used is cyanide of potassium, which is one of the most deadly poisons. If this were taken in the sap of the tree, it would be deposited in the leaves and fruit, and would kill any animals feeding on the leaves as well as persons feeding on the fruit, and also would modify the appearance and flavor of the fruit. You can see that it is nonsense to state that this would kill the scale and other pests of the tree, and not affect the sap of the tree for persons using its products.

Even if the cyanide of potassium powder were effective in controlling the scale by such means, you can see that any person could buy this material for himself and apply it to his trees, and not pay such a tremendously high price to the Company as I understand this Company is getting rich in the sale of this product. You can buy the cyanide of potassium for about thirty cents per pound, and one pound of this will make more material than this Company sells for ten dollars. However, I warn you against the use of it, as it is not effective. Also, it is a very deadly poison to handle.

I am surprised that anyone would make claim that this material kills the scale and does not injure the tree. But just such statements were made by a few persons who used the sulfur-resin-gunpowder combination, known as 'Sick-kill', that was manufactured and sold at Waynesboro, Pa., a few years ago. For awhile, for the fruit growers of this State, that firm was out of business. The U. S. Post Office authorities declared them a fraud, and prohibited them using the U. S. mail."

There has been some very important improvements attached to the power threshers recently and now the wheat or grain is put in the bag, weighed and the weight registered automatically, so that it is possible to tell at any time during the time of threshing just how many bushels have been bagged.

Instead of the regular monthly meeting of the Buckingham Farmers' Club, the members will picnic at Willow Grove Park this Saturday, with other clubs of the county.

TREVOS

SUNDAY SCHOOL ORGANIZED.

For the first time in five years the Scottville M. E. church was opened last Sunday afternoon and a very interesting Sunday school was organized by Dr. J. W. Bradley, pastor of the church. There being twenty-seven persons present the school was organized with a full corps of officers and teachers. The following officers were elected, Superintendent, Jesse B. Brandreth; assistant superintendent, Lewis P. Heckroth; secretary, Abigail Sagerdoff; assistant secretary, Mrs. Scott; treasurer, Mrs. John Entwistle; librarian, Mrs. Charles Caldwell; assistant librarian, Mrs. John Entwistle; organist, Mrs. Jessie B. Brandreth; assistant, Mrs. Howard Austin. A cordial welcome is extended to everybody, children and adults to join in the work of making this school a success. School will be held every Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Deacon Eben Worthington has been in attendance at each meeting in Pittman Grove.

Mrs. Jeremiah Brandreth has an excellent recipe for cake, and is quiring but two eggs. For absolute perfection in the bakers' art it takes the cake.

The Misses Estelle and Mae Fay, nieces of Mrs. John A. Leary, are here from Philadelphia, for two weeks. They are graduates of a prominent conservatory and both are accomplished musicians.

The efforts of Mrs. Philip Waldman and Mrs. Silas Twining as promoters of the surprise party given on Thursday night, a week ago, in honor of Rev. and Mrs. John W. Bradley, resulted very successfully. A large number of Simpson Grove people and others were present with their offerings of delicacies for the occasion and a money equivalent to fifty dollars. An impromptu address of welcome by the Rev. Mr. Graef, and remarks by John L. Stewart, were happily offered. There was also a prayer by Mr. Graef and the appropriate hymn "Blest be the Tie That Binds." It is remarkable that most all of the money came without solicitation. The affair was under the auspices of the Aid Society, whose members deserve great credit.

Kindly read announcement under the Somerset Items of a fine picnic to be held at Neeshammy Creek, Tuesday, August 8th. This will be one of the great events of the year at that popular resort. We are asked to state that everybody is invited. A large number of young people will be present from many Bucks county towns.

The Andalusia baseball club, named after that famous town in Spain where minerals are found in rhombic crystals, was defeated by the 23rd ult. Score, 6 to 1. Terry and Vannan and Hinkle, York and King were the batters; H. E. E. 1. The Andalusites, H. E. E. 3.

We have some inside information concerning a new business which will soon be introduced into our community—an enterprise which shall assure a long-felt want. It is a good thing, as you will say, that formal announcement is made. It is also rumored that there is to be a chapel built for a certain religious denomination, whose plans at present are strictly confidential. We are allowed to state, however, that it is not for the Baptist. The construction of the chapel would attract a number of families to our growing town, and these people are standing about until the consummation of their desire.

Under date of March 25 we stated in this column that a letter was on its way to Reading officials, asking for a shelter station opposite the Trevose depot. By reference to that paragraph you will refresh your memory as to some of the reasons given. Your correspondent wrote that letter and called attention also to the curbs on the westward end of the passenger platform and the inclement weather which at times necessitated our many travelers standing unsheltered while freight trains passed on to the city, thus blocking the way to the depot proper. Kindly notice the pile of lumber near the freight house, which was left there on Friday, the 22nd ultimo. It is for our new shelter station, which, as stated in the letter, is warranted by the railway company's earnings at Trevose. Our next move is for a subway, and with it will come the certain improvement of the many acres which lie between the rights-of-way of the Short Line and the old road. With building restrictions upon these plots we shall eventually have a suburb as attractive as any which adjoins the most beautiful city in picturesque America.

For several months past the population northward of Trevose has been wanting a Sunday school, and since the closing of the little church at Scottville, these people have at times found it inconvenient to send their children to our village. Such a school was organized on Sunday last with twenty-seven members and meetings will be held in the Scottville church. We are informed that Miss Read was one of the prominent leaders in the movement and that Jesse Brandreth, Esq., of Trevose, has been unanimously chosen as superintendent.

On Sunday last eighteen free riders were taken off freight trains just east of here by four special officers. These prisoners were then handcuffed and taken to the county jail. Upon previous occasions as many as twenty-four such riders have been counted upon one car.

George McComb spent Sunday evening at Camp Northington, Trevose.

The Misses Rice and Conway, of Philadelphia, are spending their vacation at Simpson Grove. Several hundred attended the moving picture show in the auditorium on Saturday night last. The films were good and showed with less firework effect upon the eyes with the gas used functions. The series of photographs of Washington, Lincoln, McKinley and "Teddy" obtained from the National Geographic Society. There will be another picture show to night, August 5th.

Mrs. B. Verne Strickland left on Tuesday for the mountains north of Williamsport. She will be away for thirty days.

There is a congregation of population in this town during the summer months and most houses are crowded. It may surprise some to know that five hundred dollars worth of tickets to and from Philadelphia have been sold within two hours at Trevose station. The subway is the key to the present condition of affairs and here we shall find in this column to suggest how the door to Greater Trevose may be unlocked. Between the street developments at Philmont were upwards of five hundred acres are to be occupied by permanent residents within the next five years. And before the expiration of that time the town will come to Philmont and Somerset.

One of the social events of the season was the evening company given by Miss Cecile H. Waugh of West Philadelphia, in honor of Miss Abigail A. Randall, of Emily, Pa., on last Thursday. Clifford T. entertained the friends with his baritone solos. After a most pleasant evening the guests departed. Among the guests present were the Misses Edwards, Rice and Rigg and the Messrs. Carroll, Prall, Seery, Terry and Worthington.

The many members of Simpson Grove Sunday school are holding a picnic at Neeshammy Falls to-day, Saturday, August 5th.

Miss Helen A. Boileau, of West Philadelphia, spent the week-end at the home of Mrs. Philip Waldman.

Walter Carroll, of Trevose, spent an extended vacation at Atlantic City. Mr. Evans, of the Simpson Grove House, proved himself a hero when he rescued a young man from drowning in Neeshammy creek Sunday afternoon.

The neighborhood is agog over a friendly address of a lecture delivered last week. Without seeking to away opinion or discuss details of the address, it is a pleasure of imparting peculiar information to the very young, attention is invited to a profound work which should be in every home. It is by Herbert Spencer, "The World's Greatest Thing," is entitled "Education—Intellectual, Moral and Physical." Told convincingly in comprehensive language, it is beyond question of great value to parents, as compared with the scientific treatises of advanced physiology and anatomy relative to the reproduction of the human species and the inoculation of such knowledge into the vacillating impressionability of both sexes who are scarcely well advanced into their teens. It is a well-known axiom among medical students that "a little knowledge is dangerous," and to what extent this absolute truth would tend among young students of the sciences, is apparent to experienced adults. At least this appears to be the general verdict among the cognate sciences, search among the most learned philosophers is to the effect that not only is it unwise to use very urgent incitement to such good conduct, but it is even unwise to use very urgent incitement to such good conduct. Almost all people recognize the detrimental results of intellectual precocity; but there remains to be recognized the truth that there is a moral precocity which is also detrimental. Our higher moral faculties, however, are not intellectual ones, are comparatively complex. By consequences they are both complex and delicate in their evolution. And with the one as with the other, a very early activity produced by the future character. Hence the not uncommon fact that those who, during childhood, were instanced as models of juvenile modesty and by and by, so some disastrous and seemingly inexplicable change, and end by being not above but below par; while relatively exemplary men are often the issue of a childhood by no means so promising.

A dollar put in the bank at interest takes root instantly. It is not parched nor burned by frost or drought; not killed by fire or flood. It will not be injured by heat or by cold, by famine or pestilence, by fire or flood. It will not be lost through a hole in the pocket, nor borrowed by some pestilential friend or boon companion. It is beyond the reach of earthquake or lightning, accident, sneak-thief, thug or murderer."
